Apartment Handover — Protocol, Repairs and Meter Readings

Proper apartment handover: handover protocol, cosmetic repairs, meter readings and common mistakes to avoid.

Deutsche Begriffe: Übergabeprotokoll | Schönheitsreparaturen | Zählerstand | Wohnungsübergabe | Abnutzung

What is an apartment handover?

Apartment handover takes place during move-in and move-out. The condition of the apartment is documented. A proper protocol protects both parties from later disputes.

The Handover Protocol

What must be included?

- Date and time of handover
- Persons present (tenant, landlord, possibly witnesses)
- Condition of each room — walls, floors, windows, doors
- Existing defects — scratches, stains, damage
- Meter readings — electricity, gas, water, heating
- Number of keys — apartment key, mailbox, basement
- Photos as evidence (with date!)

Tip: Conduct the handover in daylight — defects are difficult to spot in artificial light.

Sample template

A handover protocol typically contains a table:

Room	Condition	Defects
Hallway	good	Scratch on door
Living room	good	—
Kitchen	satisfactory	Lime scale in sink
Bathroom	good	Silicone sealant needs renewal

Cosmetic Repairs

What are they?

Cosmetic repairs include painting and wallpapering walls and ceilings, painting doors and radiators.

Must tenants renovate?

- Many clauses in rental contracts are invalid (e.g., fixed periods like "paint every 3 years")
- The Federal Court of Justice has ruled: tenants must only renovate if they took over the apartment in renovated condition
- Taken over unrenovated → no renovation obligation at move-out
- If in doubt: ask your tenant association (membership approx. 60–90 €/year)

What is normal wear and tear?

No grounds for deductions from deposit:

- Slightly yellowed walls
- Small anchor holes (up to 5 mm)
- Worn-out carpet
- Light wear marks on door handles

Reading Meter Levels

On the day of handover, read all meters and note them in the protocol:

- Electricity meter — for deregistration with electricity provider
- Gas meter — if available

- Water meter (hot/cold) — for utility cost settlement
- Heating — heat cost allocators on radiators

Avoid Common Mistakes

- No protocol — without a protocol, the landlord has a free hand with the deposit
- Defects not documented — photos with date are decisive
- Complaints too late — report defects immediately at handover
- Keys given without receipt — always demand confirmation
- Apartment not cleaned — the apartment must be handed over broom-clean (not renovated, but clean)
